Launch Into Your Future: Application Types and Platforms

Early Decision is binding; Early Action is generally nonbinding.

Students do not need every answer before they begin. For application types and platforms, the useful first move is to identify the information owner, review a current official source, and record the next action.

Try this now

1. Identify the institution and intended program.
2. Verify the accepted application platform.
3. Compare available application plans.

Families can support the process by asking what has been verified, what still needs an answer, and when the student will follow up. Requirements and opportunities can change, so use the official sources below and the school's counseling or student services team.

CALL TO ACTION Choose one action today. Write down who owns the answer and the date you will check back.
