

Launch Into Your Future

Employment Readiness

Student Learning Deck

Three ideas to use now

- Know this

- Employment readiness begins with a realistic target role and evidence that matches the employer's requirements.
- A complete plan includes application materials, interview practice, workplace communication, and start-day logistics.
- Students should verify the employer and use the employer's official application route before sharing personal information.

What to know. What to verify.

Start here

- Employment readiness begins with a realistic target role and evidence that matches the employer's requirements.
- A complete plan includes application materials, interview practice, workplace communication, and start-day logistics.

Verify before acting

- Do not promise an interview, job offer, wage, schedule, accommodation, or continued employment.
- Do not send sensitive personal information through an unverified posting or contact.

Build your action plan

- Next moves

- Identify a realistic target role and employer requirements.
- Translate school, work, service, and project experience into evidence.
- Tailor the résumé and application to the specific posting.
- Verify the employer and official application route.

Use it now

Exit ticket

Write the next action you will take about Employment Readiness. Name the official person or office that can verify your information, and choose a follow-up date.

