Three ideas to use now

- Know this

- Delaware's workforce system includes JobLink, American Job Centers, workforce programs, apprenticeship, training, and partner services.
- The correct entry point depends on the person's employment goal, location, urgency, and support needs.
- Eligibility, funding, provider approval, service availability, and capacity are determined by the responsible program.

What to know. What to verify.

Start here

- Delaware's workforce system includes JobLink, American Job Centers, workforce programs, apprenticeship, training, and partner services.
- The correct entry point depends on the person's employment goal, location, urgency, and support needs.

Verify before acting

- Do not promise eligibility, funding, a training slot, supportive services, or employment.
- Do not share personal information with a provider without the person's consent.

- Next moves

- Clarify the person's employment or training goal.
- Identify barriers, urgency, and information already known.
- Choose the most appropriate verified entry point.
- Confirm who owns eligibility, enrollment, funding, or service decisions.
